Class of 1924

We are now finishing the preparations for the journey which will begin, as our last year—in this dear school—ends. It has been proved to you that we, as the Senior class, are capable of going out into the world on our own responsibility. We possess every requisite that goes to make up a strong band of leaders and service-giving people, and for that reason we are ready to begin our march—"The Crusade of the Class of '24."

Every member of the class will be a soldier of the Crusade; some for one cause, some, another; but every individual will be striving toward the destination—success.

We shall all have our ideals to live up to, our specific duties to perform and our own work to accomplish. In order that our ideals may be highest and most worthy, we, to begin with, must keep in mind those things which have guided us so successfully thus far, and those things which will serve as guides for us in the future.

Our banners must continue to fly high and go before us in our march proclaiming that which will come to pass—"Success to the Crusaders of 1924."

Class of 1925

Aye, well do I remember, 'twas in the early part of June. The court room was jammed. Spectators who could not push into the room crowded the streets. Yes; all hearts with but a single thought—the sentence, would it be guilty or not guilty?

In the court room, interest was at the highest pitch.

The jury filed in. The chairman of the twelve arose.

"Your Honor, without doubt the prisoner is guilty in every respect of the word."

The Judge: "Since the jury has found the prisoner guilty of participating in all activities, in fact of doing so much that the Seniors had to take a back seat, I sentence the grandest Junior class in the history of Northeast to serve one more year at that memorable school."

The Class: "But, Sir——"

His Honor: "'Tis said and done. I made this sentence because of your commendable work as students and as activity men, because this class of '25 has shown itself capable of shouldering any burden that may be placed upon it. The Juniors have beaten a path for the Sophomores to follow, and it will be the Juniors (next year's Seniors), who will lead the school on to an endless field of glory and honor."

The Class: "We solemnly pledge to give our full measure of devotion to 'thou dear Northeast'."

So ended the school year for the class of '25.

Class of 1926

Though Northeast may have failed at times to perceive that we are true jewels, yet here we stand—the largest Sophomore class in the history of the school; not only the largest, but the best, be it known. For when you come back in '25, you'll see cups you never saw before—cups which the Sophomores helped win. And that's no idle boast, for we have much talent. Two Sophomores have won letters in basket ball and several show great promise in track. Sixteen Sophomores are on the Honor Roll, two on the highest and fourteen on the general. We were represented in the Music Contest this year also.

Legend, myth and even historical records are replete with tales of Seniors and Juniors, but we, the class of '26, are out to show the world that honors may fall to Sophomores; in fact, we have proved it.

But have our successes turned our heads? Do we allow our triumphs to stretch our hat bands? No! Far from it. We still eat in the same lunch room, sit in the same assemblies, go to the same meetings with these lesser beings, the upper classmen.

FOLINE EPPSTEIN, '26.

THE FACULTY'S GIFT TO MISS ELLEN E. FOX.

Among the many expressions of appreciation that were extended to Miss E. Fox on her retirement from the active work of teaching in our High School, was the presentation by the faculty of one of the rarest etchings entitled, "The House of Gold." The following note of presentation accompanied the gift:

Miss Ellen E. Fox,

Dear Friend:

Most cordial greetings to you from the Principal and Faculty of Northeast High School!

Daniel Voorhes, the stalwart and famous Indiana Senator, said, in his eloquent eulogy to that eminent painter, Brumidi, whose wonderful paintings adorn the dome of our nation's capitol: "He who scatters along life's highways objects of beauty for the human eye to rest upon, is a benefactor of the human race!" If this be true of lifeless works of art, how much truer is it with the vital deeds of the human heart, and mind, and hand. It is for this reason, Miss Fox, that your fellow teachers and friends, take supreme delight in honoring you on your retirement from the active work of teaching.

Your long and faithful service has yielded a plentiful and golden harvest, which is fittingly symbolized by the accompanying rare etching of and entitled "The House of Gold."

On behalf of Principal B. M. Stigall and the Faculty of the Northeast High School, we, the committee, beg you to accept this work of art as a small token of our perennial friendship and esteem for you.

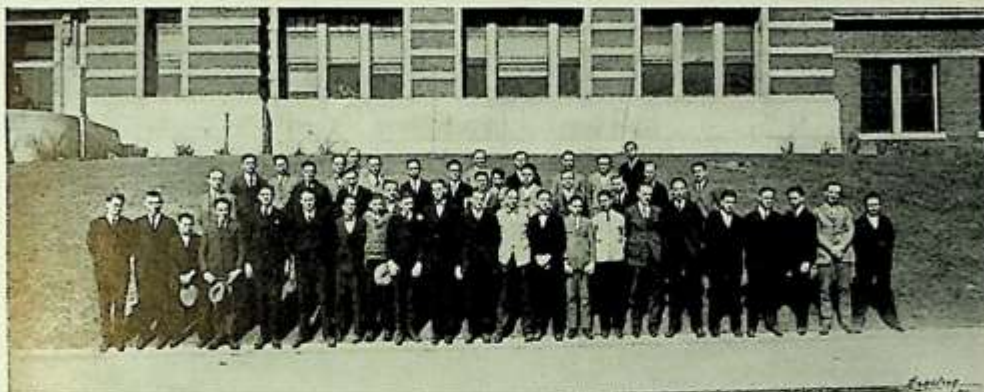

E. D. PHILLIPS, Chairman
MISS JANE ADAMS
MISS EDITH E. BARNETT.

The Boys' High School Club has just finished its most successful year in its history. Under the leadership of our adviser, Mr. Harry Harlan, we have lived up to our reputation, and not upon it, by further promoting social and moral welfare of the student body of Northeast High School, through the creation and extension of high standards of Christian character. Our club has grown and spread its Christian influence throughout the school, making itself felt in all the activities in school.

We take this opportunity of expressing our thanks to all the churches who have co-operated with us, and to Harry Harlan for his leadership. We look forward to a better and more prosperous year, and feel sure that the club will thrive and make its influence felt next year as never before.

The Girls' High School Club has just finished a very successful year. From the first meeting the girls have shown an inspiring enthusiasm. The theme for our meetings this year was "Builders." Keeping our theme always in mind we have introduced into our program meetings on health, knowledge and spirit. Ye girls who have not come to our meetings this year, look over our program and come out with interest and pep to our meetings next year. Here is the year's "bill of fare":

September 20—Two days' Cabinet House Party at Camp Washita.

October 29—Hallowe'en Party with ghosts and pumpkins n'everything.

November 26—We made a Party—a Hallowe'en Party for some little Japanese girls in Japan.

December 10—Mrs. Morse, a conference leader, talked to us on "What Is True Happiness?"

December 17—We had our beautiful Christmas Pageant, scenes from "The Nativity." The Treble Clef sang carols.

January 14—Songs—funny songs, folk songs and song stunts.

February 18—Girls from many of the foreign countries came to the meeting and told us the things that their countries had given to America.

Mid-winter conference. Northeast girls represented Russia at the Peace table.

March 11—The Sophomores, our youngest sisters, gave a dramatized Child Labor Program for us.

March 4—Whoever heard of a "Papa Party?" We have heard of nothing since.

March 25—All the Hollister girls of the four high schools put on a camp stunt.

April 21—Election of our new officers. Who's the new president???

April 28—Senior Farewell!!!! Alas, we are forced to bid our illustrious upper classmen farewell.

May—Pow-wow and Steak Fry with the Boys' High School Club

May 9—The Big Banquet!! Hurrah for Northeast!!!

The Northeast Society of Debate has completed the eleventh and most successful year in its history. Our roll call, one of the best, contains the names of thirty-two peppy students of Northeast.

The aim of this organization is to study higher types of literature, to practice and master debate work, and to promote democratic ideas among its members.

Its year of activities has been very prosperous. The Debaters have had a good representation in every social and athletic activity of the school. It has an illustrious past to uphold.

Only a small number of the members will graduate this year, so with the members that will be back next year and the new members that will be admitted, there is no doubt but what the twelfth year will flourish and continue to uphold the glorious standing of the past.

The Debaters gave their annual invitation Christmas dance December 22, 1923. A hike was also given this spring.

The Shakespeare Society will soon be closing another of its successful years. The Shakespeares are an ambitious society, striving hard to uphold a high standard of scholarship, and to maintain the ideals and traditions that are benefiting our name. There is a spirit of co-operation in our society, and we have had some real work and real fun this year. Even if we do not win the "Lit. Contest" as we expect to do we feel certain that this year has prepared each of us to do greater and nobler things in life and that we have done much to raise the standards of Northeast. Everyone knows that the Shakespeares have always held the most prominent positions in school, and have always been at the head of every activity. Despite the fact that we lose many illustrious members through graduation, we are holding the Shakespeare standard as high as ever, and we are sure that when they are gone, the Shakespeares will continue to maintain the high ideals of the Shakespeare Society.

The Delphians are as live as ever! We hope to prove it by carrying off the laurels in the Literary Contest again this year, as we did last spring.

We are losing over half of our members with the departure of the seniors. It is with sorrow that we see them go, but we hope that they will always carry with them the true spirit of the Delphians. We will be sorry for the school year to end, because it means that pleasant associations will be discontinued. We hope that whenever possible the alumni will come back to visit us.

As a tribute to George Ennis, a member of the Society who died April 28, 1923, the Delphians have established a scholarship fund. Our goal is seventy-five dollars, as a start. We hope this will be increased from year to year by the society. May it aid some worthy, struggling Northeast students through school.

Our society pledged one hundred per cent support of the project of a "Hollywood Bowl" for Kansas City.

In regular meetings, on our hikes, at our feasts, dances and song practices, everyone has had a good and profitable time.

"Oh, our name, it is Clionian,
Our principles are true."

Sounds familiar, does it not? The Clions are doing so much this year!

During the first semester, Northeast was presented our one-act play, "Six Cups of Chocolate."

This year our meetings have been opened with an interesting sketch of the life of some author, and roll call has been answered by quotations from his works.

We are quite proud of our three girls on the debate team, and feel that Northeast's prospects of winning were decidedly brighter because of them.

Do you remember how close we came to first place in the Literary Contest last year? We do, for we came in second by two points, and by the work we have been doing in the past two months, we hope to win first place this year.

We are sorry to lose our seniors, but we shall try to carry on their ideals and the standards they have set for us.

We were very sorry to have Miss Duggins resign from being adviser in February, because of frail health. She was, however, unanimously elected honorary adviser, while Miss Armstrong is our active adviser. We hope to keep both of our advisers next year, and to be a credit to them.

The Benton Spirit has come to its own at last. For three full years the Bentons have "weathered every wreck" and have finally won their spurs of leadership. No more will the Bentons be considered to be still in the stage of infancy, for they have taken up the reins of leadership and will be considered as such—the leaders of the school; loyal to both Northeast and the Benton Literary Society. In every school activity the Blue and Gold has been more than well represented. It stands at the top above them all. This year has truly been the most successful year for the Benton Literary Society. May the Benton Spirit carry on, through the future years.

Heard "Lit." Contest Night: "Who are those cute girls in blue and white?"
 "Why, they are Thetas."

"Well, the Thetas are an attractive bunch, aren't they?"

"They are! They're noted for their good looks. But, more than that, my dear, they're noted for their courtesy, their dependableness, and their intellectuality. They are formidable rivals in anything, but they're perfectly darling girls and everybody loves them and wants to join 'em. Lucky are the ones who get in!"

That's a fact! Every word of it is true. "Formidable rivals in anything!" Well, I should say so! Indeed, that we excel in everything might be a better, though mild, way of stating it.

The Theta dances and other social events have always been the best of the year, and this year was no exception. We know, you know, everybody knows that we are the brightest and peppiest bunch in school. As we have been, so we will continue to be

"For we are the Deltas, can't you see?"

As we close this, our fourth year, we can't resist sighing contentedly as we think of the honors brought this year to our Queen Delta by her "Always Faithful" members. In nearly every place of honor "Delta" has been written. Five of her members have attained membership in the National Honor Society. Next year, for those who return, there will again be the joy of seeking honors for Northeast and Delta.

For memory's sake we here jot down our social events of the year: Fall Luncheon at the Women's City Club, January 5; Spring Hike; Afternoon Tea in May.

We have worked as our aim directs, never forgetting our song:

"To our school we owe our very best
We uphold its standards with a zest
And we know our colors, white and green
Are the fairest that the world has ever seen.

For loyalty, yes loyalty,
Is given by each Delta tried and true,
And loyalty, yes, loyalty,
Is all we ask, dear school, of you."

THE NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY OF SECONDARY SCHOOLS, NORTHEAST CHAPTER

The Northeast Chapter of the National Honor Society of Secondary Schools was organized this year. This organization is intended to stimulate scholarship in high schools, similar in purpose to that of Phi Beta Kappa in colleges and universities. Its real purpose, as defined in the constitution, is "to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote leadership and develop character.

The members of this society were chosen by a faculty committee selected by the principal. In this year's organization ten per cent of the senior class, and one per cent of the junior class were honored. Since the aim of this organization is the promotion of good citizenship, the members were selected according to their ranking in scholarship, character, leadership and service. At a formal and dignified ceremony held before the whole school, each member was presented with his Honor Society pin.

Election to this society is the highest recognition that can come to students of Northeast. It carries with it two responsibilities; one, the cherishing of the ideals of the society throughout life, the other of furnishing inspiration to the younger students to strive for this honor.

The Northeast Mathematics Club has always been the leading club in school, and this last year it has not fallen below the mark.

It is the only club in school which subscribes to a magazine in its particular line of work. The Math. Club subscribes to the "School Science and Mathematics" Magazine, and members of the club work the problems presented, both for entry in the contests and for club programs. On our programs we have talks by club members on famous mathematicians, solutions of difficult problems, and talks on different phases of mathematics by members of the faculty.

The Math. Club play was one of the best produced in assembly this year, and in everything the club has undertaken, it has shown the same enthusiasm which marked it from the first as outstanding.

It is only necessary to look at the record of the individual members in societies and other school activities, as well as in the club itself, to form an estimate of their character and worth. Everyone is a society member, and all the school activities are participated in by Math. Club members. The club has indeed had a fine year, and we look forward to a bigger and better year than ever before.

Avez-vous jamais entendu parler de "Les Penseurs", cette année? Certainement, vous en avez entendu parler, car toute l'école sait que "Les Penseurs" vit.

Il n'était pas possible que nous donnions une bonne pièce comme à l'ordinaire, mais attendez jusqu'à l'année prochaine. Nous nous amusons bien à nos réunions, parce que elles sont toujours très intéressantes. Cette année les membres ont présenté la farce célèbre "Patelin", la première farce qui ait jamais été écrite.

Elle très bien jouée. La pièce date du moyen âge.

Peut-être on ne sait pas que nous parlons français aux réunions? Mais c'est vrai. C'est pour ça que nous aimons tous le français et que nous pouvons le parler si bien. Si vous voulez être une membre de ce cercle français, apprenez bien la langue française. Cela vaut la peine.

Diez anos ha un pequeno grupo de estudiantes del espanol organizaron una sociedad para hablar espanol y llamaron esta sociedad La Sociedad Castellana.

La regla "Aqui no se permite hablar ingles" fue adoptada como la regla suprema de la sociedad. Esta regla ha dominado en casi todas las reuniones durante su existencia. Esta se obedece y este ano no ha habido mas de una reunion en la que se hablo ingles.

Casi todas las personas que estan interesadas en el estudio del espanol son miembros del club espanol y asi han podido aprovecharse de la buena oportunidad que las reuniones ofrecen de hablar y oir hablar el castellano.

Los programas del ano han sido muy interesantes e instructivos. Se han presentado unos dos o tres juguetes y tambien una Brasilena dio un discurso.

De veras La Sociedad Castellana ha tenido exito este ano y que siga prosperando en el futuro. Que viva para siempre La Sociedad Castellana.

Dear Old Northeast Art Club is just closing another successful year. Why? Because we have a "peppy" group which has proved one of the most popular clubs at Northeast, as those who attended our cotillion dance will testify. Our hike is among other interesting events that the Art Club has had this year. The Art Club meetings are always interesting and beneficial to all, due to the efforts of each member. Our meetings help us to gain more knowledge of art in decorating, designing, posters, cartooning, art craft, sketching and every phase of art. We also have chalk talks given by our members, illustrating rhymes by caricatures in chalk. We don't need to advertise, for our artistic decorations which array the halls and classrooms proclaim us "king of all clubs." Can you look anywhere without seeing the Art Club represented? No! We are everywhere! Just look us over! Just watch our club of 1925 and see them fly their colors!

Nor'easters all know the Vesta Club. We are three years old and still have our full allowance of "pep."

This year the girls have been very busy. We supplied the "eats" for the Inter-Society Club Dance, April 25, and we just know that our goodies brought the crowd.

November, we had a mixer in the little gym, and everyone had a jolly time.

February, we had a Tea at the Art Institute.

Aside from learning how to cook we have also learned something of "Home Life in England" from a speaker from London. A speaker from South America talked to us about "Home Life in South America" and a Red Cross Worker told us about "Home Life as Seen by a Red Cross Worker in Missouri."

Oh yes! we are planning to have a steak fry at Swope Park before June.

We have just finished celebrating our third year at Northeast. To us who are leaving, there is no doubt but what we have gained knowledge that will help us to make our life successful in a business way, and to those returning there is only the thought of making the club more successful than it has been this year.

We took many trips to the various commercial houses of the city, and we were very fortunate in receiving valuable instructions from our adviser, Mr. Coleman.

The meetings were made interesting by the programs given by the various members of the club.

Throughout the year we had a number of social events. The club presented an interesting play in assembly. A mixer in the afternoon and a dance in the evening were given for the school at large, and as a climax to all activities a hike was given, all members enjoying it immensely.

In this year's Glee Club we have a fine group of fellows, several of whom were in the club previous to this year. Among them, Richard Lewis, who has been elected sergeant-at-arms for the sixth consecutive term.

1924 is the tenth consecutive year that the combined Glee Clubs have won the music contest. Three cups were won, including the Sight Reading Cup, the Girls' Chorus, and Boys' Chorus. This is the ninth year that the boys have won their cup, losing it last year to Central by a very small margin.

The contest is held annually around April first at Junior College. Four cups are contested for, the Sight Reading Cup, Mixed Chorus, Girls' Chorus, and the Boys' Chorus. Each high school has the same songs to sing and the one that does it best is awarded the cup. The judges are the best obtainable in the United States, usually from universities and colleges.

Saturday night, April the sixth, the Boys' Glee Club is to sing at the second annual Military Circus, given by the combined R. O. T. C. organizations of the four high schools. The main number on the program is Annie Laurie, with which the club won the boys' cup.

We are hoping to go to Hickman Mills for our third annual concert and chicken dinner. We eat dinner about six o'clock at the church and after dinner we have a little amusement till about seven thirty. We then give our concert at the high school at eight p. m.

Speaking of Hickman Mills, I wonder if Johnny Barnes knows anything about domestic animals, such as cows and chickens. I'll bet he does, just ask him.

At the solo contest which was held two weeks before the annual music contest, Duncan Stewart, Uhl Winans and Raymond Barr won vocal solos to sing in the cantata given the night of the music contest.

Northeast had several members winning second place.

What a glorious victory for Northeast was March 28th, when we walked away with three cups, the Sight Reading, The Girls' and The Boys' Cup. Ever since there has been a "Thou dear Northeast"—1914-1924, we have been victorious in the Music Contest. Think of it fellow students, what other organization in the United States can produce such a record? Indeed, we owe most of our praise to our splendid, persevering director, Mr. Chaffee. Never has a group of girls been more enthusiastic, energetic, and ambitious as the class of '24. Our Leap Year Dance February 29th, given by the Treble Clef and Glee Club was considered the best of the year. In all undertakings, aim high is our advice, for we believe like James Russell Lowell, "That not failure, but low aim is crime."

The Northeast Olympic Association is an organization composed of girls from the department of Physical Education who are admitted to membership through a point system. Points are given to girls who make teams and who pass certain requirements in the following activities: Soccer, hockey, volley ball, basket ball, swimming, track, hiking and dancing.

The meetings are held in the gymnasium Thursday afternoons. Some of the Olympians are chosen as sport managers, who assist in arranging and running off the inter-class match games and meets.

Each spring the Olympians, assisted by the girls in the Physical Education Department give a dancing fete. This entertainment, for which an admission fee is charged, is given in the assembly hall in the evening. The proceeds are used for departmental equipment. Last year they bought a gray curtain of Monk's cloth which is used as a stage background, not only by the Olympians, but by the school at large.

It seems to be an established fact that the Olympians are workers, and by working their days are made exceedingly short and happy.

As the youngest club of the Northeast High School, the Botany Club has made a worthwhile showing in the galaxy of school organizations. The charter members used great care to recommend for admission to their circle only those who have a genuine interest in God's great outdoors and its living creatures.

The first meeting was held on the famous Indian Mound, which holds so much of traditional and scientific interest. Here, seated Indian fashion, they devised plans which have later been put into execution to make the club a permanent factor in Northeast progress.

Mae Hayes, as first president, with her able corps of assisting officers, was efficient in giving the club its impetus toward eventual success. At midyear Otho Mustain took up the gavel with telling effect. Lucile Sliffe proceeded to provide programs of interest to all.

Kathryn Smith with an all-star cast, staged an elaborate degree of initiation, which was dramatized by Kathryn from a beautiful myth of ancient Greece. All who witnessed this event declared it a decided innovation in school life.

Next year's plans include the wise decision to take advantage of the fair weather of early autumn for a much enlarged program of outdoor work and nature study in the environs of Kansas City.

Sophocles. "Have you heard the news?"

Plato. "No. What is it?"

Soph. "They are taking a new interest in our language on earth."

Plato. "Is that so? I thought everyone was too interested in jazz nowadays to think about Greek."

Soph. "At any rate, in a place called Northeast High School they've started a Greek class. From what Hermes says I imagine that it is quite successful. He says they took for their motto 'ou poll' alla polu.' That's very sensible in my opinion."

Plato. "What do they call themselves?"

Soph. "Phi Alpha Sigma. Hermes tried his best to find out what words those letters stand for, but they are keeping it a secret."

Plato. "I am certainly pleased with this piece of news, for it encourages me a great deal. I thought all interest in Greek had disappeared long ago."

Soph. "Perhaps this would have been the case if their teacher, Miss Murdock, had not kept up the enthusiasm. She deserves a great deal of credit."

Plato. "Indeed she does. I intend to go in search of Homer at once and tell him about this class."

Pent-up enthusiasm bubbled o'er,
 High aims and lofty purposes broke forth
 In quest of truth and beauty at Northeast.

And twenty-one fine youths and maidens fair
 Last fall began to study classic Greek.
 Phenomenon? Not so, for thus the wise
 Have ever turned to fountain heads of knowledge,
 A thirst for that which truly makes life rich.

Sincere our effort to promote our school,
 In just return, of us she should be proud.
 Great honors, not a few, by members won
 Make ours a gleaming record shining far,
 And this, our club, a bright and undimmed star.

The only Music Appreciation Club in Kansas City High Schools was chartered at Northeast November 7.

The aim of our organization is to bring the understanding and love of music to our entire student body and community.

Friends of club members and members of other clubs were invited to hear the two lecture recitals given by Mr. Paul Snyder, pianist, and Mr. Harry Garrell, vocalist, and to accompany the club to the Art Institute, where Mr. Kurtzworth gave us a correlated music and art talk.

A recital was given to friends and patrons of Northeast, explaining the numbers played on the Cleveland Symphony program, and was followed by a line party to the concert.

The Club, with the help of interested friends and the student pledge of 30 ticket-books, gave the Kansas City outdoor music season a big boost with its display of a miniature outdoor stadium in a downtown window, a parade, and thirty-minute programs in the family hotels. Through the kindness of the Kansas City Little Symphony, under the direction of Mr. N. De Rubertis, we were able to give one of the most enjoyable assemblies of the year.

The success of the Northeast High School Orchestra has been very conspicuous this year—even carrying the previous years honors to a still higher goal.

Several new members have been added to the already well balanced and sufficiently numbered personnel of this orchestra.

The outstanding events of the year were numerous, the principal ones of which were numerous concerts at the Grace Presbyterian, East Side Presbyterian and Oakhurst M. E. churches. The proceeds of the concerts were used in the purchase of music and instruments. The orchestra assisted with numbers at various functions, one in the Ivanhoe Temple for the Kansas City Theatre, another in the Athenaeum, and the various activities in the school's own assembly.

Perhaps the most honorary appearance of the orchestra is on May 3, 1924, in Convention Hall, playing the "Unfinished" symphony by Schubert.

Several of the members of our orchestra have been elected to belong to what might be termed as the "all-star orchestra" of Kansas City Schools (and Junior College included).

The repertoire of the orchestra is well rounded, some numbers of which are, "Midsummer Night's Dream," "Carmen," "Poet and Peasant," "Luspiel," "Prometheus," the "Unfinished" symphony by Schubert and the "Surprise" symphony by Haydn. Carl Zimmerman, pianist, plays the "Concertstuck," by Carl Weber with the orchestra accompaniment, and Duncan Stewart, concert-master, plays the "Concerto in E Minor" by Mendelssohn, also with the orchestra's assistance. The rendition of these numbers was well performed and the orchestra furnished a very good background.

Last but not least, the great success of this organization is primarily due to the excellent leadership and personality of its conductor, Mr. Frank E. Chaffee, whose interpretation and musical knowledge is of the highest type.

OUR BAND.

The roster of the band contains forty names. Twelve of these belong to our symphony orchestra also, but the rest are regular members.

The band played at all the basket ball games in Convention Hall, and was the only band present, because none of the other high schools has a band. It has played for various organizations and gatherings this year, including Parent-Teacher rallies, Camp Fire Girls' Convention, dedication of the new Winner Road, Kansas City Star's Oratorical Contest, and for the R. O. T. C. Circus, where it created very favorable comment from regular army officers because of its military bearing and music.

The repertoire of the band consists of military marches, mainly, although light concert and semi-popular numbers are also used.

Jazz has no place on the list.

Much credit is due Mr. J. J. Ellis, our capable director, who has given so much of his time and energy to supporting, exhibiting and directing the band.

The officers are: Mr. J. J. Ellis, Director; Paul Jones, Drum Major; Leonard Smith, Assistant Drum Major; George Swope, Assistant Band Leader; Ralph Sloan, Sergeant; Kenneth Patzman, Corporal; James Kirkpatrick, Librarian.

Several other members are capable and worthy of offices, but due to certain rules are ineligible because they belong to the R. O. T. C. or to the symphony orchestra.

The Student Council of 1923 and 1924 has perhaps done more for the student body than any other former council. Every measure that passed the student representatives was discussed thoroughly in the regular meeting and after due consideration voted upon. After the signature of approval was affixed that measure became a law. Those measures that have become laws this year are as follows:

No post graduate may be allowed to hold office in any society or club.

A non-society member may belong to two clubs provided they do not meet on the same day.

Post graduates shall not be allowed to enter into any school activities except as associate members of societies or clubs.

The points for tennis shall be reduced from 3 to 2.

No stag shall be allowed to attend a dance given by a Northeast organization except one who is an active member of the same organization.

Any measure affecting the point system, passed by the Student Council, shall not go into effect until the following term.

The same law which applies to post graduates concerning entrance into activities shall apply to fifth year pupils who, the preceding years, have earned their diplomas.

Inter-scholastic activities are governed by inter-scholastic rules.

The work of the first term executive board is commendable because of the handbook which it compiled. With the aid of Miss Packard and Mr. Sharp the articles for the booklet were written and revised. It has been the pleasure of the second term board to distribute the finished handbooks to the representatives in their first hour classes.

Altogether we feel as though the work of this year's Student Council has been very beneficial to the student body at large and we ask it to co-operate with the council as much as possible in the keeping of the measures which were desired by the student body.

The ultimate object of R. O. T. C. is to develop the student into a physically sound, patriotic, upright and disciplined citizen, capable of defending our flag should an emergency arise. If you are to become a disciplined citizen you must recognize the authority of those over you, and promptly obey and respect it.

Honesty, justness and faithfulness are the true virtues of a loyal Nor'easter. A commander is just in his treatment of his men, honest in his relations with them, and faithful in the execution of every task assigned to him. Such virtues are the characteristics of the officers and men of the Northeast High Battalion.

The rifle team is the first in respect to activities in the battalion. Northeast's team won second place in the seventh corps area contest, Missouri University taking first place. Northeast will, without doubt, win the National Hearst Trophy contest which closes April 15, 1924. Other events of the year are: The Military Circus held annually at Convention Hall, the annual competitive field meet, physical training such as "Walter Camp's Daily Dozen" or the "Butts Manual," and lastly the election of the Sponsor Major, an office highly honored and bestowed upon a girl of high ideals. Miss Helen Stocker was elected to represent the Northeast High Battalion this year.

The headquarters company of the Northeast High Battalion consists of: Major W. H. Gray, battalion commander; First Lieut. James, field adjutant; First Lieut. Clyde C. Walker, personnel adjutant; Capt. Adjutant Paul Jones, Capt. O. M. C., Frank Goodwillie, Harold Paine, staff sergeant; Arthur Castleman, master sergeant; Eugene Frank, sergeant major, and color sergeants, W. Allen and A. Wilson.

When the reveille sounded on that September morn, we found it quite a task to begin again our school life. Sergeant Vickers was on hand early, and as the men answered roll call, they were designated to companies. The larger boys were detailed to "A" Company.

About the time the prospects looked the best, our instructor, Sergeant Vickers, retired. To fill this vacancy one of the best men on "Military Science and Tactics" was selected. It was none other than Mr. Shreves, Warrant Officer, U. S. Army.

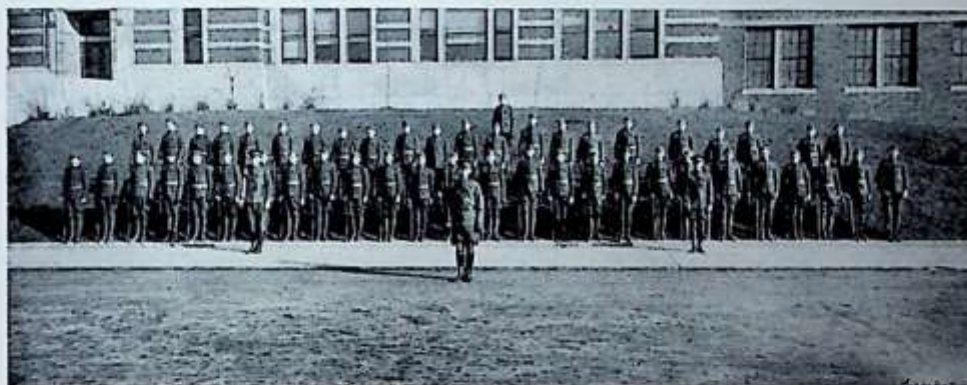

The call for rifle team men was sounded, and the company's men are numbered among the best. In the N. H. S. Battalion field meet, the company did fine work.

Company A is considered one of the outstanding Companies of the entire unit, due to the faithful co-operation of each and every man of the company. We have produced one of the crack squads which put on an exhibition at the annual R. O. T. C. Circus, April 5. Company A also led the Battalion parade at the Circus on the same date. There will be a decision made previous to the annual Field Meet. The best company will represent N. H. S. in the annual Field Meet.

The majority of the credit is given to Captain Pool, who has been working very hard to bring the Company up to standard. Captain Pool is liked by every man in the Company which has been proved many times by the interest they take in drilling.

The officers express their congratulation and appreciation to the men for their snappy drill and co-operation, and also wish them success and happiness in the future.

TO "B" COMPANY.

There are some fifty-five young men in the R. O. T. C. that compose Company "B" of the Northeast Battalion. While not the largest company in the "unit," we believe that quality rather than quantity is the goal to be striven for. It is the cadets that make the company, and Company "B" is formed of men who have been patient and persevering in their study of military science and tactics, men who have co-operated with their leader.

We feel that we are a great credit to the cadet corps and aided in keeping aloft the great ideals of Patriotism and good citizenship, two essentials of manhood.

And in leaving, a grateful company commander extends his compliments to his men and officers who have worked so eagerly with him during the term, and he wishes them fortune and good luck on their way in the great march on the journey of life.

In the first few months of the year the finest ideal of R. O. T. C. was brought out in Company "C," namely, "Comradeship." This was made manifest from the very first by one who endeared himself in the heart of each cadet, because of his possession of those distinctive qualities which alone mark the true soldiers and real gentleman. These words express in a small measure the rare characteristics of Captain William Schaerrer, more commonly known as "Prince of Wales." The personal interest, his personality, and his ability as an officer caused the boys, one and all, to become enthusiastic about their work; and, as a result, company drill became not only easier but also enjoyable.

If you have followed athletics at Northeast in the past three or four years, you have noticed how they have improved. The teams are better, the fellows are better sports, and there are more fellows out trying to win places on the teams. The reason for this is that through their untiring efforts the members of the "N" Club have succeeded in getting the right sort of fellows out for athletics.

The "N" Club not only stands for cleaner and better sports for Northeast, but it also stands for everything that will bring honor and glory to the name of Northeast. For these reasons the "N" Club is one of the best clubs at Northeast.

About forty candidates reported for football practice this fall, among them ten letter men from last year's squad. With these ten as a nucleus, Coach Peters moulded one of the best elevens Northeast has ever had. Although one of the lightest, it was the fastest team in the league and its performance was a credit to the Purple and White.

The first game of the season was played with the St. Joseph Central High School at St. Joseph, Missouri. The Purple team showed its mettle by winning, 12 to 0.

The second pre-series game was played with the Joplin High School, which was reputed to have one of the strongest high school teams in Missouri. Northeast showed its heels to the heavier eleven in a 14 to 2 victory.

Interscholastic Games

Northeast, 0; Westport, 6. Rain and mud dampened the spirit of players and spectators alike. Unable to utilize her speed, Northeast went down to defeat, not before a superior team, but because of a field of slippery, sticky mud. Westport's lone touchdown came as a result of a fumble back of the Purple goal line.

Northeast, 0; Manual, 6. Another muddy field, with lowering skies, and a slight rain, falling fitfully. With her light backfield rendered useless, Northeast was unable to stop the charging Grantello, who crossed the goal line early in the first quarter for the only score of the game.

Northeast, 0; Central, 0. A dry field at last, and Northeast took advantage of it by holding the Central champions to a scoreless tie. Northeast was never in danger, while the Blue and White goal was repeatedly threatened, "Jakey's" drop-kick only missed by inches. Northeast completely outplayed Central.

Northeast, 6; Westport, 3. Northeast started the second round of the series by breaking into the winning column. Westport scored from placement in the second quarter, but Northeast staged a comeback in the third quarter, sending Thelen over for the touchdown.

Northeast, 6; Manual, 0. Coach Peters' men displayed their real ability in defeating Manual. The Crimson line was unable to stop the savage plunges of Henley and Lattimer, and Martin crossed the line in the third quarter for the winning touchdown.

Northeast, 14; Central, 7. Northeast closed the 1923 series with a sweeping victory over Central, enabling Manual to annex the pennant. It was the first time in four years a Central team had been beaten. Can you wonder that Northeast was jubilant? The Purple eleven outplayed and outgeneraled the Blue and White team at every stage of the game.

Although Northeast did not win the pennant, she claims undisputed title to the best team in the league. We are justly proud of our boys. May the Interscholastic series always be as purple be-decked.

A Review of the Basket Ball Season.

Northeast started the basket ball season with only two letter-men back from last year, but as the season progressed, many new players came into prominence. The basket ball team, like the football team, promised to be the lightest and fastest team in the league, and although prospects were not bright for a championship, a very successful season was predicted for the Purple and White.

Northeast, 18; William Chrisman, 17. The first game of the season resulted in a victory for Northeast, but not before a battle that kept the spectators on the edge of their seats throughout the entire game. Victory came in the last half when the Purple quintet opened up an offensive that overcame the early lead held by the Independence five. The score tells how close the game was.

Northeast, 17; Central, 18. The opening game of the Interscholastic League was played January 4, with Central facing Northeast and Manual opposing Westport. Central took the opening game from Northeast by one point. The Purple held a safe, though narrow, lead throughout three-quarters, but in the last session Central hit a pace that Northeast found hard to combat and lost in the last few minutes of play.

Northeast, 18; Manual, 10. The second game of the series was more to our liking, Northeast taking an easy victory from Manual. Koonse and Offutt proved to be the outstanding stars of this game. It was their close guarding that kept the Crimson forwards down.

Northeast, 17; Sedalia, 15. The series was interrupted, and each team allowed two out-of-town games. Northeast took advantage of this by invading Sedalia. The game was very rough, although only a few fouls were called. The low ceiling and narrow court bothered the Purple players in every quarter, but they managed to outclass the Sedalia five.

Northeast, 45; Marshall, 6. The second out-of-town game was played with Marshall High in the Northeast Gymnasium, and proved an easy game for the Purple quintet. The visitors scored only one field goal in the entire game. Offutt was at his best in this game, scoring 12 points.

Northeast, 16; Westport, 26. The Interscholastic series was resumed on January 25, and Northeast went down to defeat before an aggressive Westport five. The score was not as Blue and Gold bedecked as the score might indicate, for at one time the Purple players crept up within two points of Westport's lead.

Northeast, 16; Warrensburg, 30. The series was again disrupted and Northeast met Warrensburg High on February 1. Warrensburg won because of an advantage of height and remarkable accuracy in shooting. Northeast's teamwork was superior, but they lacked the goal-shooting ability to follow up their advantage. Koonse and Warren starred for the Purple, the latter caging four goals.

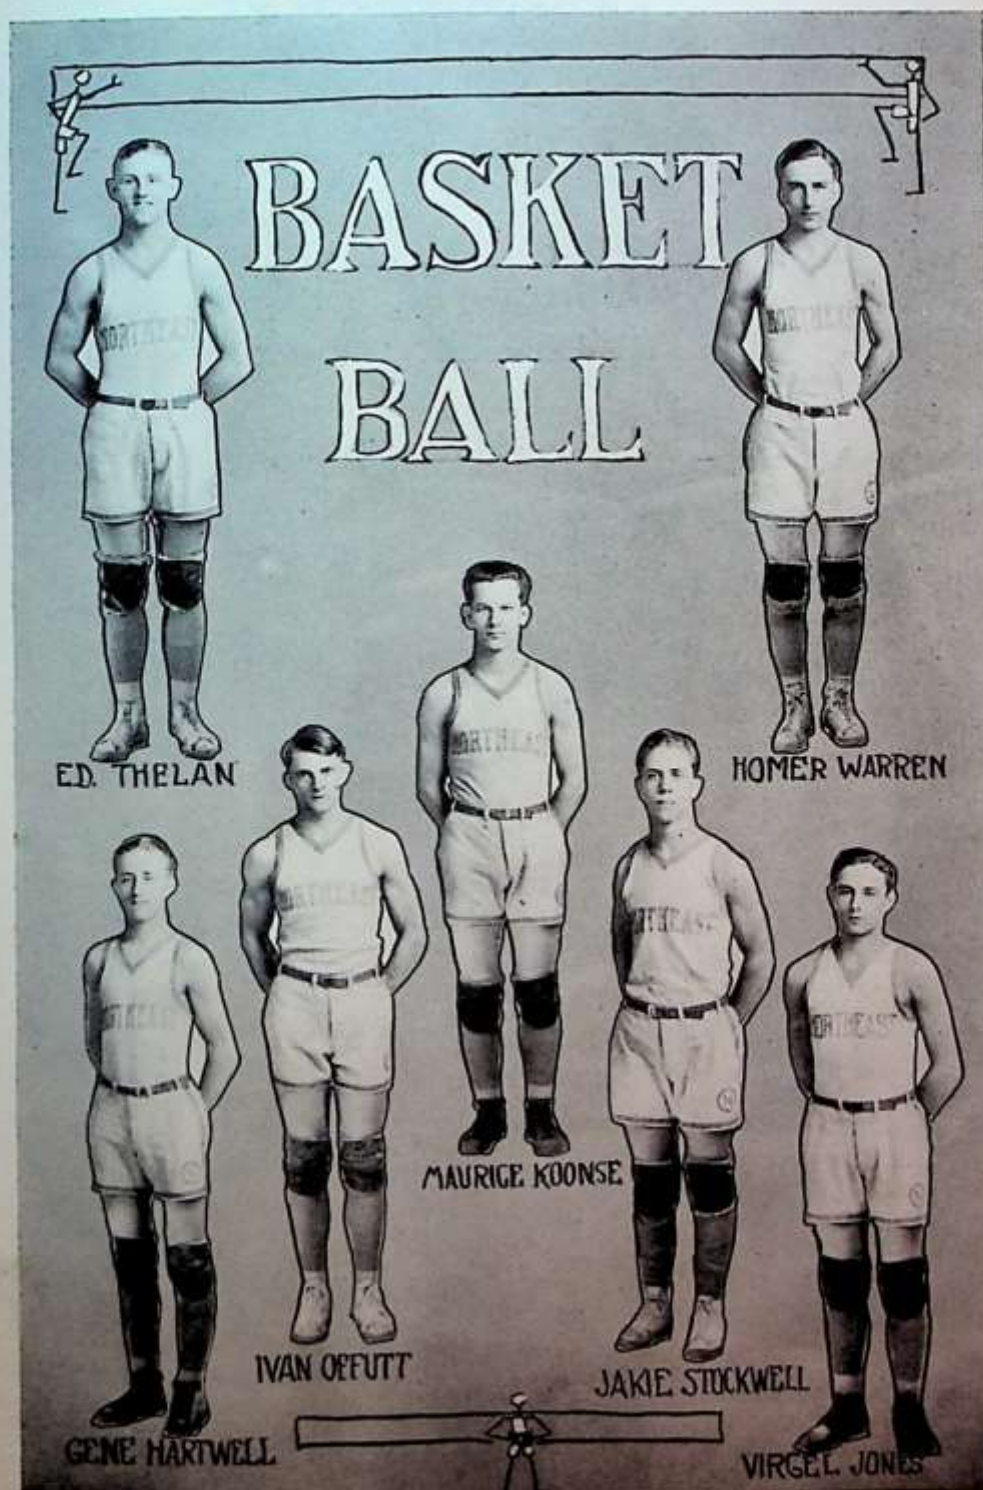

Northeast, 7; Central, 39. Again the series was continued long enough for Northeast to take a beating from Central. The Purple team suffered a severe slump in this game and was hopelessly outclassed from the start.

Northeast, 9; St. Joseph, 18. The last out-of-town game was played at St. Joseph with the Central High, and resulted disastrously for the Purple five. Both defenses were strong and the narrow court made it hard to work the ball down the floor. All of Northeast's goals came from near the center of the court.

Northeast, 26; Manual, 20. The last stretch of the series was resumed March 1, and found Northeast taking an easy game from Manual. The Purple team sprang into an early lead and was never headed. Stockwell played an exceptionally good game for Northeast, contributing three goals and two free throws to the score. All of the players showed an increased familiarity with the basket.

Northeast, 16; Westport, 27. The last game of the series was played on March 6. Central cinched the championship by winning from Manual, while Westport defeated Northeast. The Purple team fought a desperate fight and managed to hold Westport down in the first half, but the Blue and Gold cagers were not to be denied, and with the aid of Welsh slowly pulled ahead in the last quarter.

The result of the 1924 series was not disappointing to Northeast, for we know that our boys fought hard and fair, and although greatly handicapped by size, gave a good account of themselves in every contest. We are justly proud of Captain Maurice Koonse, who was made captain of the all-star. This is the third year Koonse has obtained a berth on the mythical five. A word of praise is due Coach Peters and every player.

First Row—Top—Solomon Warren, Benton, Jones, Bolsseau.
Second Row—Stockwell, Koonse, Hartwell, Offutt, Thelen.

As the Annual went to press last year before some of the principal meets, the brilliant victories won by the Purple squad were never recorded.

At the K. U. Relays they won the high point trophy. At the Drake Relays they won two firsts, a second, and two thirds. They won the State Meet at Columbia with the highest score ever recorded, and competed in the National Meet at Chicago. All together, they won 47 medals, 8 watches, and 10 cups. The outstanding stars were: Miller, Stocker, Lancaster, Henley, Thelen and Cook.

Track Review

Last year Northeast had a track team that made history for itself all over the country. This year, with a few veterans returning, and a host of promising material at his command, Coach Peters expects to put out a team that will even surpass the records set by the old squad.

In Henley, Northeast has one of the best high school 100-yard and 220-yard men in the country, while Daniels is crowding fast on his heels.

In the distance runs, Thelen and Lewandoski stand out. Thelen has not lost a race so far this year, although placed against some of the strongest competition the country could furnish; while his team-mate Lewandoski, is crowding fast on his heels. In the field events his best man is Offutt who is expected to do better than 5 ft. 11 inches in the high jump.

With these men as a nucleus he has built one of the strongest teams in the Middle West. As this Annual goes to press the only meet they have lost was to the Wentworth Military Academy.

The Purple team won all the indoor meets with ease and precision, their strongest competitor being Manual, with the speedy Grantello as their principal ace.

On the indoor track, the Crimson star won the 50-yard and 440-yards with monotonous regularity, but as an outdoor sprinter he proved to be a failure. In the Manual-Northeast Dual Meet, Henley beat him out in the 100-yard dash; while Thelen bested him in the 440-yard run.

The Crimson team was no match for the Purple squad, Northeast winning ten out of a possible thirteen firsts.

The first disaster of the season came when Wentworth upset the dope and turned in a score of sixty-one points to Northeast's forty-eight, largely by finishing strong in second and third place, as Northeast won seven out of thirteen firsts.

At the Kansas Relays, Northeast divided honors with Cedar Rapids, winning the 2-mile and medley relays, and taking second in the 1-mile and $\frac{1}{2}$ -mile. This is the second year that Northeast has won the medley.

At the Drake Relays, Northeast took the national 2-mile championship relay and the medley against some of the strongest teams in the country, including the crack team from Cedar Rapids.

This year Northeast won the state meet at Columbia for the second successive time, taking four firsts and a total of 40 points. Henley won the 100-yard dash and 220-yard dash in fast time, while Thelen broke the school record in the 880-yard dash, taking first in 2:03 2/10 seconds.

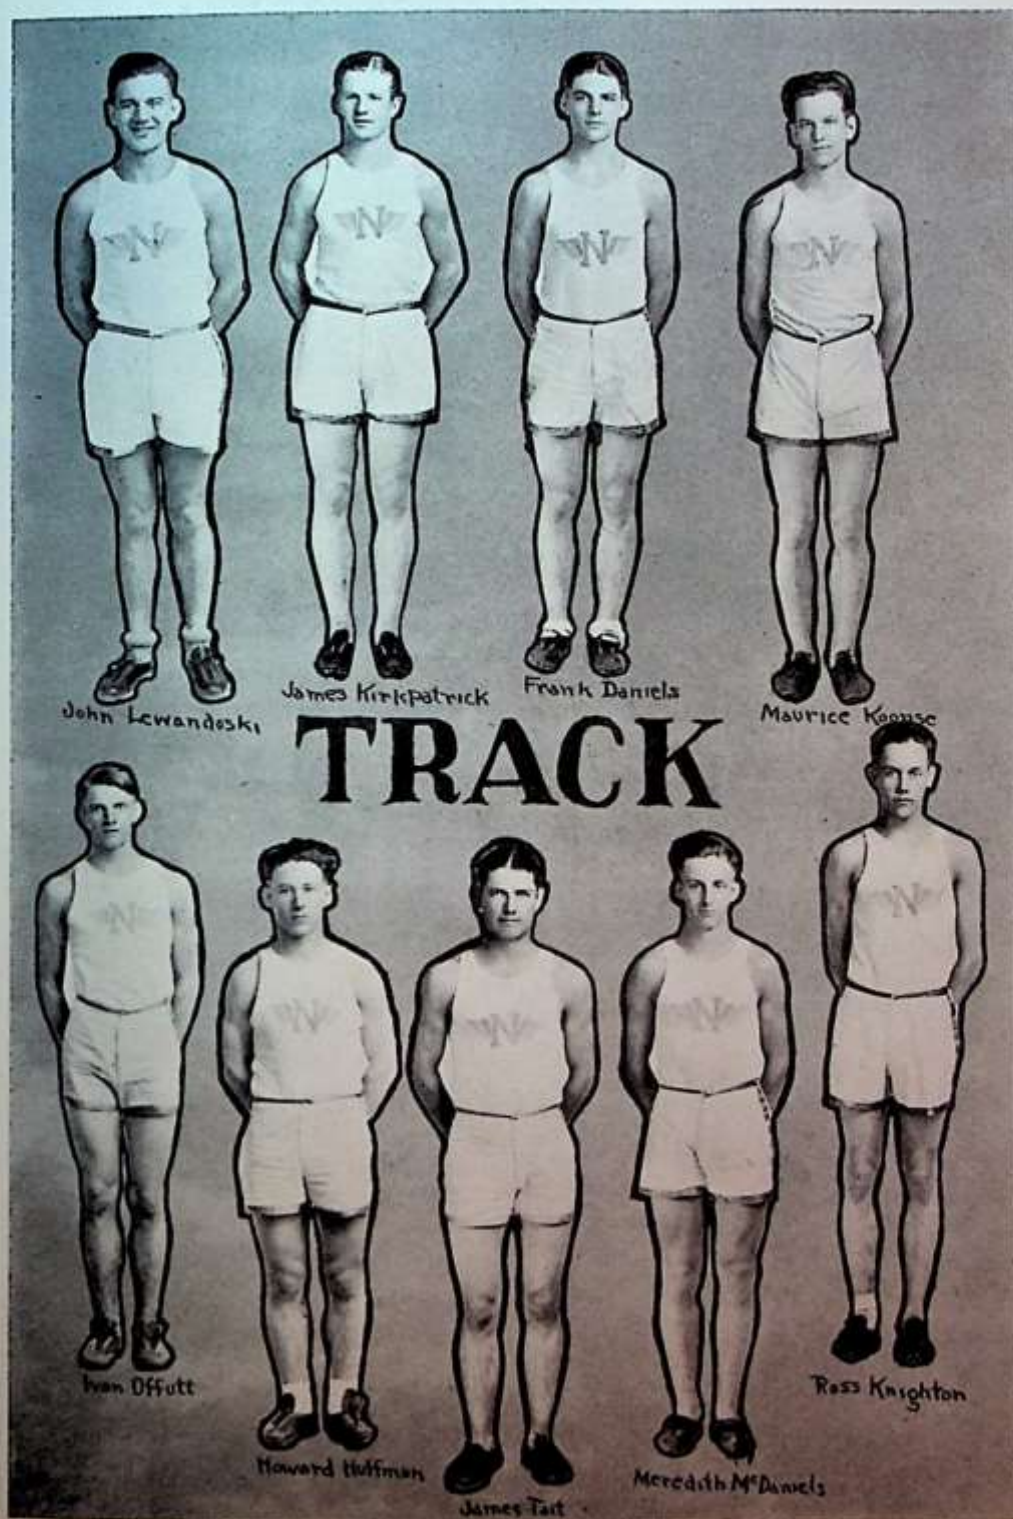

The Purple 1/2-mile relay team also performed credibly, leading Westport High of Kansas City to the tape by a large margin. Next to Potts of Joplin, Henley was the star of the meet, with two firsts and a second.

So far Northeast has won 9 cups, 12 watches and 32 medals, and she will undoubtedly win the Quadrangular meet and place high in the national meet at Chicago.

A word of praise is due Coach Peters and every member of the team for the brilliant records which have placed Northeast athletics on the map in such a way that the Purple and White will never be forgotten.

Tennis

Miller, Scott, Griffith, Johnson, Boisseau.

Northeast tied with Central for first place in tennis, largely through the spectacular playing of Tom Miller and Ernest Johnson. These two stars easily won the boys' singles and doubles. The championship hinged on the mixed doubles and a desperate fight was staged by the Purple players in an attempt to chinch the title, before finally being conquered. Northeast was noticeably weak in the girls' division, but the stellar playing of the boys more than made up for this.

Tennis

Campbell, Cox, Spicer, Harper, Simson.

Tennis is the only inter-scholastic sport in which the girls are allowed to participate. Because of this, more interest and enthusiasm should be shown. A preliminary tournament is held each spring among the girls of Northeast for the purpose of finding material for the inter-scholastic team.

The following girls composed the team: Ruth Spicer and Mildred Simpson, singles; Kathleen Cox and Marion Shockley, doubles; Gladys Campbell and Ora Ward, doubles; Charlotte Harper, mixed doubles.

INTER-CLASS TRACK MEET.

On May 3, 1923, all girls interested in track were ready for the beginning signal. Each one was eager to place in as many events as she could. In all, there were nine events, 50-yard dash, 75-yard dash, backward basket-ball throw, forward basket-ball throw, broad jump, hop-step and jump, high jump, relay and baseball throw.

After everyone had had a chance, the total score was found to be in the Juniors' favor. The class score was as follows: Juniors, 34; Sophomores, 24 2-3; Freshmen, 24 2-3, and Seniors, 62-3.

KATHLEEN COX, '24.

SWIMMING.

Northeast had a girls' inter-class swimming meet, April 23, 1923. The close competition made it an interesting exhibition to many spectators. The order of events were as follows: Relay, side-stroke, breast-stroke, 100-yard swim, dash, candle-race, plunge for distance, dives for form and treading—both form and time.

At the close of the meet the class scores stood: JUNIORS, 42 points; FRESHMEN, 20 points; SENIORS, 17 points, and SOPHOMORES, 11 points. The individual scores ranked in the order named: Mabel Richart, Junior, 25 points; Olive Russel, Senior, 17 points; Frances Gilmore, Junior, 7 points; Gladys Harrington, Freshman, 6½ points; Charlotte Harper, Junior, 6 points; Marjorie Evans, Freshman, 4½ points; Alice Barbour, Junior, 3 points; Betty Janes, Sophomore, 3 points; Mildred Schneider, Sophomore, 3 points; May Wells, Freshman, 3 points, and Marjorie Books, Freshman, 2 points.

SOCCER

Soccer football for girls provides the same interest and excitement that inter-scholastic football promotes for the followers of boys' football. There are few highly organized mass or group games which are practicable for girls, but soccer presents several marked advantages as a game for girls. First, soccer provides vigorous exercise, and good team play is simple of development, since the technique of kicking and passing is not difficult. It cultivates sportsmanship, the highest ideal in girls' athletics.

The call for soccer practice brought nearly a hundred girls out to try for places on their teams. Keen competition was presented by all the teams, and the Seniors came through with the championship; the Juniors came second, while the Sophomores brought up the rear with no victories to their credit. The teams of respective classes are as follows:

BASKET BALL

Girls as much as boys need to learn, through practical experience, the rules of fair play. Here at Northeast, basket-ball plays an important part in teaching girls good sportmanship. Early in November, when the first call for basketballers was sounded, fifty-four girls responded. From this number the following teams were picked: SENIORS—Charlotte Harper, (f); Kathleen Cox, (f); Helen Strickle, (j. c.); Louise Stephens, (s. c.); Dorothy Thom, (g.); Georgia O'Brien, (g.); Irene Offutt, Fay Davis, Mabel Richart. JUNIORS—Mildred Day, (f.); Merle Davis, (f.); Uarda Newsom, (j. c.); Mildred Schneider, (s. c.); Ardene Stephens, (g.); Louise Stickle, (g.); Mable Woodard, Marjorie Tarwater, Louise Foreman, SOPHOMORES—Grace Stansbury, (f); Virginia McGlathery, (f); Frances Co-vault, (j. c.); Marjorie Books, (s. c.); Dorothy Worrell, (g.); Glendora Setzler, (g.); Hyacinth Borders, Martha Burlie, Eloise Edland.

The Seniors were picked for the championship, as they had the same team as last year and had won the year before. The schedule was as follows:

- Feb. 4—Sophomores, 17; vs. Juniors, 13.
- Feb. 18—Sophomores, 10; vs. Seniors, 31.
- Feb. 15—Juniors, 13; vs. Seniors, 17.
- Feb. 21—Sophomores, 12; vs. Juniors, 25.

- March 12—Sophomores, 21; vs. Seniors, 33.
- Seniors Champions—Hurrah!

KATHLEEN COX, '24, Head of Basket-Ball.

SPRING HOCKEY

Field hockey was taken up this spring by the physical education department for the first time in the history of the school. Hockey is a fall sport, but the equipment did not arrive until about the beginning of the second term; so class teams will be selected and a schedule of inter-class games arranged for this spring. The game is played with clubs and a hard rubber ball. The rules are somewhat similar to those of soccer except the manner in which the ball is advanced. There are eleven players on a team: center, forward, right and left insides, right and left outsides, center half-back, right and left half-back, right and left full-back, and a goal keeper.

VOLLEY BALL.

Volley Ball, one of the oldest sports for girls at Northeast, was the cause of a great deal of interest and enthusiasm this year. As the soccer season was nearing its close, practice for volley ball began. All candidates for the basket-ball teams were declared ineligible for the match games in order that those who were less active might have a chance to qualify.

Many girls who were not out for soccer came out for volley ball, and the contest was a very heated one. The tournament took place during the first three weeks of December, the games being run off in a double series.

The Seniors were the victors. The Sophomores and Juniors tied for second place.

BASEBALL.

Baseball is one of the most interesting of spring sports for the girls. Each class turns out many candidates. Last year the Sophomores won the championship, closely followed by the Juniors. The race was so close that the championship was not decided until the last few innings of the last Sophomore-Junior game. The games were as follows:

Sophomore, 10; vs. Freshman, 8.

CHARLOTTE HARPER, '24, Baseball Manager.

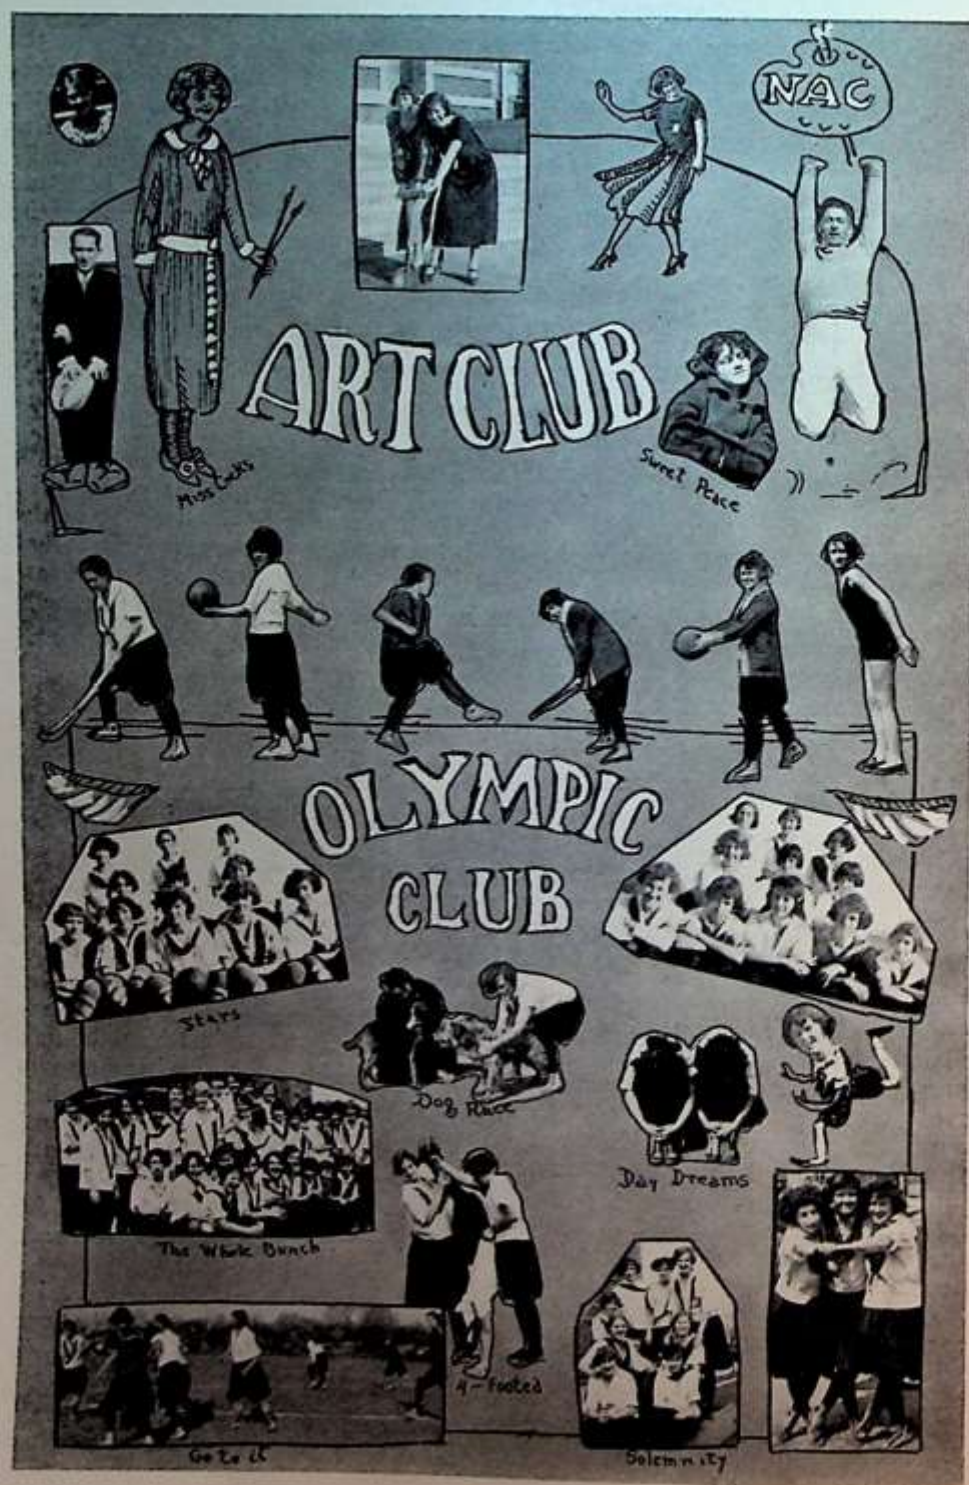

HIKING.

The Physical Education Department at Northeast, under the supervision of Miss Heibel, has paid more attention to hiking this year than in any preceding one. The real value of hiking as a corrective exercise is more clearly recognized now than ever before. Hiking, and especially hill climbing, are very valuable exercises for strengthening the muscles and thus for physical development, as every muscle in the body is brought into more active play.

There have been hikes planned for every girl in the department. At the beginning of the year, the hikes were shorter, but as the girls become accustomed to the exercise, they are lengthened.

The different classes are now becoming interested in taking hikes by themselves, where as before all classes combined in one hike. Soon there will probably be a spirit of rivalry aroused between the classes in one's effort to "out hike" the others.

Boys' Debate

Although the goddess of debate let her favor rest on Central, the two Northeast teams made a creditable showing in the annual inter-scholastic debates.

The debates were held on Friday evening, March 21. All negative teams remained at home.

The question debated this year was: "Resolved, That Kansas City, Missouri, Should Adopt the City Manager Form of Municipal Government."

Although both Northeast teams were defeated by unanimous decisions, they debated in a better manner than the score would seem to indicate. There is no disgrace attached to an honest defeat, and Northeast can justly be proud of her two hard-working teams.

Central won the debate championship by defeating Northeast's affirmative and Westport's negative, and defeating Manual's teams in the tie-off.

The Northeast affirmative team that met Central's negative at Central was William Horowitz, first speaker; Arthur Griffith, second speaker; Baker Shelton, third speaker, and Fred Hawkins, alternate. Although the alternates do not speak, they do a great deal of necessary work.

The Northeast negative team which met Manual's affirmative at Northeast was Charles Luckman, first speaker; Warner Lantz, second speaker; Forrest Judd, third speaker, and Frank Baxter, alternate.

Much credit must be given to the coaches, those faithful, tireless trainers, who make the teams what they are. So to Mr. Snell, affirmative coach, and Mr. Hibbs, negative coach, goes the credit of producing teams that, although they did not win, gave their best to Northeast.

And with Warner Lantz, Fred Hawkins, Forrest Judd and Charles Luckman returning as veterans, the 1925 championship in boys' debate seems inevitable for Northeast.

Girls' Debate

On the memorable evening of Friday, April 4, eight tired, courageous girls, after three months of toil, set out to decide their fates and the fate of Northeast. The Affirmative team maintaining that "the United States should immediately recognize Soviet Russia," journeyed to a little school house called Central. Here Elizabeth Polley opened the momentous discussion and declaimed her views so powerfully that Central trembled with fear. After Central's first speaker had staggered through her humble speech, Frances Turpin appeared on the scene with her convincing argument. Then Mildred Edie, standing on the firm foundation constructed by her colleagues, caused the Judges to hand Northeast a unanimous decision. The "silent partner" of this team was Anna Frances Pratt.

At home the Negative team did not meet with such favorable fortune. Evelyn Jane Epley opened the argument, pleading her case forcibly. Alice Barbour continued the heated discussion in her convincing manner, and Avel McPherson closed the argument with a speech that should have convinced the judges that Northeast was to retain the much desired cup, but a-las! in rebuttal, the Manualites threw the parting shot that caused the judges to change their minds and give Manual the favorable decision. The vote was 2 to 1. The mascot and official scribe of this team was Margaret Miller.

The faithful two, whose never ceasing labor spurred us on to victory, were our honorable coaches, Miss Julia Guyer and Miss Cecile Burton.

Original Book-Plates

For the tenth year Mr. E. D. Phillips' Senior English Literature classes have made book-plates a special feature of the course, not as the mere frill of a dilettante among pedantic book-lovers, but to discover rare individual talent that should be developed for decorative or illustrative uses. For we are living in the most pictorial age in human history, when pressing demands are made on the use of pencil, pen, brush, and engraver's tools, commercially and artistically, for billboards, posters, friendship token cards and illustrations for magazines and books.

Consequently, enviable results have been made in correlation with the art department of our school.

Under the enthusiastic co-operation of our most efficient new head of the Art Department, Miss Harriette Cocks, many pupils in her design classes and outside of the Senior Literature classes, have designed book-plates. Miss Cocks has initiated a new feature of stimulating the pupils to design a book-plate for this school as a whole. The best is to be chosen from the designs offered each year—until a design is found to be worthy to be adopted as the permanent book-plate for the school.

The Missouri University Columns

"On thy campus, fair Missouri,
Stand the columns, which of old
Would have charmed the Grecian maiden
Or the Roman warrior bold.
Sentinels at learning's portals
Far removed from care and toil,
In perennial beauty shedding
Classic rays o'er western soil."

—W. H. POMMER,

Dean of Department of Music at M. U.

O, Missourians, raise your heads in pride and gaze upon your monument of devotion to learning! There stands upon the campus of old M. U. a relic and reminder to this and the coming generations of the sacrifice and love given by our forefathers before the altars of education. The vine-clad columns of old Missouri University building hold a story for the appreciative ears of all true-blue Missourians.

Eighty-four years ago, back in those days of 1840, the loyal Missourians gave of their time, labor and money for the erection of a university where their children and their children's children might be guided to the higher paths of enlightenment. Many of the farmers in the district near and about Columbia lacked the means to give pecuniary aid to this venture, but they gave that which is even dearer, manual labor. Many a busy man left the tending of his flocks and fields to donate a week's work to assist in laying the foundation for this great temple of learning.

These renowned and impressive columns formed a part of the first building laid by the hands of loyal men. However, after standing for fifty years quite serene, disaster came upon the college in the form of a disastrous fire and the university buildings were sadly destroyed. But standing guard over the smoking ruins there loomed six stately columns appearing as though they had been transplanted from some ancient, Grecian temple. Former students, hearing that this relic of the olden days remained, left by the fire, wrote and asked that they be left standing as a monument to the old school days. As a result, now on the campus of Missouri University one may see these imposing memories of old M. U. standing, lending an air of distinction to the college grounds.

These columns, also, play an important role in the student activities. That freshmen may fully appreciate the honor of being closely connected with the history of these dignities, they are soundly paddled if caught on the terrace near the columns. The May Queen is crowned under their august shadows, and the May Dance held on the terrace surrounding them. Even at graduation they are prominent, for if the weather permits, the exercises are held on the terrace surrounding them.

So, we have reason and privilege to be proud. Missouri is the only university possessing such a relic, the only school dignified with such a symbol of the past.

The handsome, large photograph of the M. U. columns, which adorns the north wall of the second floor, was secured by Mr. E. D. Phillips, whose special pride in the columns is not alone due to his being an alumnus of M. U., but because after the fire of 1892, which destroyed the original mother building, he took the initiative to save them. Other alumni joined with him in petitioning the "Board of Curators" to permit those six noble columns to remain as a classic feature to grace the old campus, providing they were found still to be safe and sound. May they continue to stand their ground as long as there is an "M. U."

No other university in America can boast of such a picturesque and Attic feature to contribute beauty and dignity to its landscape.

It is not surprising then that the authorized pin for the M. U. graduates is a gold miniature of one of those sacred columns.

MILDRED EDIE, Class of 1924.

Missouri

"Old Missouri, fair Missouri,
Dear old Varsity;
Our hearts that fondly love thee,
Here's a health to thee.

Every student, man and maiden,
Swells the glad refrain;
Till the breezes, music-laden,
Waft it back again.

Proud art thou in classic beauty
Of thy noble past,
With thy watch-word honor, duty,
Thy high fame shall last."

The Unknown Soldier

By HAZEL KEARNS.

God hath stamped upon humanity the impressions of Love, Freedom, and Peace, but from the first man, humanity has been unable to preserve the impressions. In contrast to this, man hath stamped the impressions of Hate, Envy and Revenge, which have resulted in War. The culmination of all this hatred and revenge was reached in the great World War. And so all through the ages man hath suffered and nations have been torn down because of Jealousy. Five years ago a great silence fell upon the fields of France. Nations were paying homage to their boys who had fallen. With all the pomp and ceremony accorded to the memory of Kings, France and England each took from the battlefield cemeteries of France, the body of an Unknown Soldier. The French Poilu lies beneath the Arc-De-Triomphe in Paris, and the English Tommy in Westminster Abbey. Two years ago a reverent silence fell upon America when the body of our unknown soldier was laid to rest in Arlington Cemetery. This soldier had given his life for the cause of Freedom, and we therefore commended his life to God and his body to the earth.

There were many who saw the procession on November 11, 1921, but how many saw the invisible presence of this American lad? Every American soldier, known or unknown, who gave his life in that cause was represented by that invisible symbol. These men have entered into the Great Fellowship, the company of those, who in all ages have made the Supreme Sacrifice. Of the faithful we read, "each one shall receive a white stone and on that stone a new name written, which no man knoweth save he who receiveth it."

This symbolic comrad is America's greatest Military Hero. His casket lay in state on the same catafalque that had borne our martyred presidents, Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley. A broad white ribbon was laid over the casket by Mrs. Harding; the Congressional medal of Honor and the Distinguished Service Cross by our late President Warren G. Harding, the symbols of the heart of the Nation went with the Soldier to his tomb. There he shall sleep for many ages until he is awakened by another trumpet, one which he has not heard on the battlefield.

As we bow our heads in solemn tribute let us hear again the call of our martyred President, Abraham Lincoln:

"It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the Great Task remaining before us that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to the cause for which they gave their last full measure of devotion, that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain, that this nation under God shall have a new birth of freedom and that the Government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth."

But the great war, the greatest of all wars is still on. It is not a war between nations but a war between the forces of admiration and malice; magnanimity and revenge; love and jealousy. How many more must give their lives before this will be efaced from the hearts of men?

And yet historians write of the glory of war!

We cannot honor our soldiers with too deep reverence; we cannot serve them with an energy of purpose or a faithfulness of zeal too steadfast and honest. This soldier has won imperishable praise and it will live on the lips and blossom in the hearts of his countryman forevermore. "For the whole earth is a sepulchre of heroes; monuments may be set up to them in their own lands, but on far off shores there is an abiding memorial that no pen nor chisel has ever traced; it is graven not on stone nor brass but on the living hearts of humanity." Let us then, each American, adopt this Unknown Soldier as our very own and live our very noblest in this land he died to save. In this sanctuary he is unknown to us, but not unhonored, for his name liveth forever.

Unknown, yet shrined in every breast
And cannonized from shore to shore
At peace, because you gave your best
What matters it the name you bore?

Who asks your race or what your creed?
Who asks to read your life before?
We feel the Glory of your deed,
We know the uniform you wore.

Short Story

The Silent Prompter

By MARGARET JOHNSON.

The wind was blustering. It steadily swept the sand before its path, catching up insecure objects and whirling them away. The man opened the door of the crude hut overlooking the lashing water. He struggled to button his mackintosh, and then, bracing himself, strode toward the shore. He tried to hold the battered old telescope steady, in order to scan the wild turmoil of Lake Michigan, which seethed with countless whirlpools, and reflected the deep gloom of the sky.

"Can't see Penny yet," the man muttered to himself. "He was a fool to go out for the nets in this kind of weather in that old hulk of a boat. No, sir, I wouldn't have gone for all the fish in the pond. Hope he gets in before morning."

He lurched drunkenly back toward the shack, tussled with the violence of the wind in pulling open the door. As he walked over to the table and lit a candle, he heard a short, feeble bark and whine.

"Those pups—nuisance!" He talked aloud to relieve his feelings.

Going over to a rough packing box in the corner, he looked in at the five small puppies—pitiful little things in their loneliness.

"Where's that dawg Gypsy?" he muttered. "Oh, yes, gone out with Penny, as usual. Well, I can't be annoyed with you pups, and I know just the place to stow you."

He picked up the box and went to the door, but evidently remembering the weather outside, he changed his mind, brought it back and put it down again. The dogs whimpered, and he filled their dish with milk. Then, throwing himself on his bunk, he tried to sleep, but gave himself to contemplation.

"Lord, how the wind shrieked! Hadn't been that way since the winter of '95, and the lake hadn't looked as ugly since the fall of '94! What if the 'Annie Rooney' went to Davy Jones with all on board? True, only Penny and the dog, Gypsy, but it was all he cared about—"

He was interrupted by the roar of the breakers. He likened the sound to some deep-sea demon gnashing its teeth, or the boom of distant canon. He went to the window and in vain tried to pierce the darkness, but the stinging mist impaired his vision. Coming back, he again composed himself for slumber, but his thoughts rose as insistent phantoms.

"What if Penny went down with the 'Annie Rooney?' Wouldn't he, Abe Caine, come into possession of the nets—and more, still, the seven hundred fifty dollars in the hole by the fireplace? Penny had not a suspicion that he'd seen him hiding his meagre savings in the hole. And what he wouldn't do with those seven hundred fifty dollars! No more partnership if Penny went down with that leaking wreck of an 'Annie Rooney.' And he'd buy a new boat with the money; he'd fish, and he'd save! He'd charge higher prices—yes, he would. 'Greed!' That word pounded in his ears and lulled him to sleep. 'Greed!'"

At noon the next day, Abe Caine went down to the beach. The gale had not lessened. The black clouds of the northeast hovered over the waters, urging them to dash with greater fury—whipping them up to a chaos of foam. The color of the depths was ever changing—emerald green slowly merging into imperial blue. The wind seemed at times to cut the crests of the waves fiercely, scattering the spray with hissing venom. No artist could have painted such a picture!

Caine looked in vain for a sail, smiling sneeringly as he turned away. Going back to the cabin, a man rose to greet him. It was Benton of the general store up in the village.

"Glad to find you here," said Benton. "Can't stay long—have to tell you that Avery Beach phoned up that the 'Annie Rooney' was wrecked on Gibraltar Rocks yesterday evening. A badly mutilated body was found on the beach with a tattoo mark of a Lincoln penny on one arm. Sorry, Caine, it must be tough to lose a pal. So-long!"

Caine said nothing, and Benton, thinking it suppressed emotion, turned and left. He did not see the gleeful grin on the face of the dead man's "pal!"

Caine went out and sat on the rocks. At last! the money from the fish for Avery Beach would be all his. The money from the sale of the barrels of iced fish in Chicago would be all his. The nets, the shack, and best of all, the money in the chimney-hole—all his!

He ate his evening meal with relish, and sat down to figure the wealth he would have. Maybe in three years he would have enough money to start salmon fishing in Alaska. Maybe in a few more years, say in 1908, he might make enough to build a cannery. Then—he heard something brush the door, a sort of scratching. Caine reassured himself; 'twas only the wind. A feeble whine and bark—he got up and opened the door, and started back amazed, astounded!

It was the dog, Gypsy, come back to her babies! She brushed between his legs, and limped over to her puppies, began licking them with delight.

Caine watched them closely, then laughed, he knew not why. Gypsy was a pitiful sight. The little terrier's eyes were red-rimmed and swollen, her coat was caked with mud; even then the ribs stuck through, showing how emaciated was the little body. The left hind leg hung limp, and a barbed wire had torn a long gash through one ear. It was incredible that she had struggled the thirty miles from Avery Beach in that condition!

This made a profound impression on Caine. Somehow some feeling made him go to the ice chest for milk, fill a saucer and set it between the puppies and their valiant mother. All lapped it eagerly, while he got the dishpan and filled it with warm water. Scarcely knowing why, but compelled by a force within him, Abe Caine, who had rarely been known to help man or beast, washed the mud from Gypsy's coat. He put an old piece of comfort in the packing box with another saucer of milk, finally placing Gypsy by her puppies.

He sat down by the table with his head in his hands. How long he sat there he knew not. Every time he looked toward the contented occupants of the packing box, his thoughts of the last two days arose and confronted him. He shivered, and trembled like a leaf tossed by the winds. After a while something seemed to break loose from his brain and swiftly coursed through every vein.

He straightened, and murmured the only words of reverence he had ever uttered to the One Whose Name he had continually taken in vain.

"God," he breathed with clenched fist, "O God, I'm going—to play—fair!"

A Street Car Ride

By KATHERINE FRICK.

Street cars are queer places. One meets with all kinds of people and experiences in them. Despite the many statements to the contrary, one can amuse himself quite satisfactorily on a street car, and one's ride need not be a thing of many horrors. Of course, there are things about a street car that no one enjoys. One is that in them you are at times subjected to embarrassing situations. Take, for instance, my own experience.

I boarded the street car the other morning on a run. I had arisen later than usual and had had no time to shine my shoes or to tie my tie straight, and consequently presented a somewhat disheveled appearance, I'll admit. Well, as I said before, I got on the car and sat down on a side seat.

There were three girls sitting across from me pretending to read a magazine. They looked covertly at me, and then after smothered giggles and exclamations, one said, "Oh, hasn't he got funny feet?"

I blushed to the roots of my hair.

"Yes, but he has a perfectly wonderful complexion. Nature always gives compensations," giggled another.

"Tee, hee, hee," giggles and gasps while I writhed in agony.

"He always wears those funny shoes," remarked one.

Now, I ask you, how in the world could they know that my feet had troubled me so for years that when I found this particular style of shoe, which eases my feet, I decided to stick to it. How could they know that?

"Oh, will you look at his tie! Oh, hohoho, ho."

I glanced down nervously, and then performed a feat that many a contortionist might have envied in trying to see what could be the matter with my tie.

"His socks just match his tie! Oh, me! Oh, me!" The poor girl was becoming hysterical, but my tie—more writhing and twisting. Oh, horrors, I had put on a gr—; no, I had put on a black one, and if my socks matched—well, what of that?

"And a hole in the toe at that," laughed another.

Well, can they see through a man's shoe? It's only a small one, and I hadn't had time to mend it myself or to send it to have it done. I lived in a suspense that was terrible for the next few minutes waiting for the next, to me, painful remark.

"He's getting bald," sighed the Blonde sadly.

"Yes, and he's taken to dieting and keeping 'thin to music,'" the Brunette informed her companions.

This thing was getting to be positively uncanny! I had kept it a deep, dark secret from my closest friends, and surely no one could have found it out.

One of the girls, the middle one who was neither blonde or brunette, glanced slyly at me, then down at the magazine, and then burst out, "Oh, ha, ha, ha, girls do look at his collar."

I wriggled nervously. Now what was wrong or funny? I tried looking out the window, but concluded that I'd rather face them than have my back to them, so I turned around.

"Just look at his nose, isn't it a sight? It's so red and scaly," I was greeted.

All that long ride I had been in agony, but this was the crowning insult, the last straw. I could bear it no longer, besides the next stop was where I got off. As I passed the three girls I glanced down at their magazine—it was a movie magazine and they were looking at a popular favorite in a comic costume, and all at once I remembered having read all those remarks about him. I was so surprised and relieved that I sat down and rode another block.

However, that night, going home I enjoyed myself immensely by looking at the car cards and applying their slogans to the people on the car. I saw a little weazened-up man, so thin it was painful to look at him. After due deliberation I said to myself, "Uncead Biscuit." To the very large woman who had the air of having done her full duty by all mankind, I applied the title, "Dutch Cleanser." That young girl whose mother looked upon her as if she were the light of her life, I gave the name of "Life Buoy." The insipid young gentleman who entered the car I named "Egg Noodles," while the mere baby who was with him I named "Bon Ami," because she hadn't scratched yet. The small imp of a boy who insisted on pulling his grandfather's beard and on standing on my foot, was christened "Fire," because he was the foe of all. I wanted to tell the old man who went to sleep on the car and so went past his destination, that he ought to "Take Yeast. It Gives you PEP and ENERGY." The woman wearing the many brilliant colors, I named "Heinz 57 Varieties." Two darkies got on. "By jove, there's the 'Gold Dust Twins,'" said I. I became quite excited with my game, and when an antiquated Italian arrived on the scene I had hard work to keep from calling "Macaroni, Spaghetti," right out loud. A little woman, loaded with a myriad of bundles called forth from me, "That's right, sister, 'Do Your Christmas Shopping Early.'" A young flapper sat across from me and chewed so hard that my own jaws ached, so I called her "Wrigley." Aha! Here came our prize intellect. He studied himself skinny. Let's see, he must be up on all world problems. We'll call him "Literary Digest." How's that?

Another delightful phase of street car riding is the fact that when someone does something that you don't like you may tell him so and thus relieve your mind.

As an example: Suppose, if you are a woman, a man sits down and stays seated, while you, after a hard day's shopping, must stand. You can hang on a strap in front of him and sigh, or, better still, if you have a companion, inform her and the world in general in a speech something like this: "Oh, my dear, I'm dead, simply dead. I went all over town for a lace collar, and then didn't get just what I wanted. Oh, I can hardly stand." Doubtless the man, upon hearing of your sorry plight, will arise with tears streaming down his face and give you the seat.

Or, if you are a man and some woman stands in front of you and says anything like the above, you can say to everybody in general: "Don't these women make you sick? Run all over town for some fool fol-de-rol. Bah!" That will surely put her in her place—oh, a street car is the best place in the world to cultivate frankness.

I wouldn't ride in an automobile for worlds. Though the street car has its disadvantages and embarrassing situations, it also has its good points. Since those three girls were not talking about me or my nose, I rather enjoy the strangeness of the situation, and I've had so many good laughs out of my game and in relieving my mind that, I repeat, I wouldn't ride in an automobile for anything, if I could always get a street car.

Poem

Divinity

By RUTH WEISSENFLUH.

Aloft on Calv'ry's hill three rugged trees,
And nailed thereon three souls in agony;
Two wretched thieves fulfilling just decrees,
Between, a panting Christ all purity,
Whose innocence made that day's blasphemy
A lasting malediction on the Jews.
It was a curse, a sore calamity;
A shamed world sobbed, shudd'ring at the news.
The dying Saviour's grief was not to lose
His well-lived life—'twas not material;
Instead, he grieved that scoffing men should choose,
Despite a sacrifice divine, to dwell
In wickedness, and in the Tempter's pay
Await the advent of the Judgment Day.

The acting of most of the players in "Seven Keys to Baldpate," given December 14 and 15, 1923, in the school auditorium, was a revelation of dramatic ability. They "put across" the atmosphere of mystery and unreality to such a degree that hysterical laughs were heard from the tense audience.

The interior of the inn, which was built like the original Baldpate Inn, Estes Park, Colorado, and mountaineer adornments of the room lent an air of weirdness to the scene which was heightened by the darkness of the night and the falling snow, seen through the door. When the wind howled around the lonesome Inn, the total effect was enough to make chills creep over the audience.

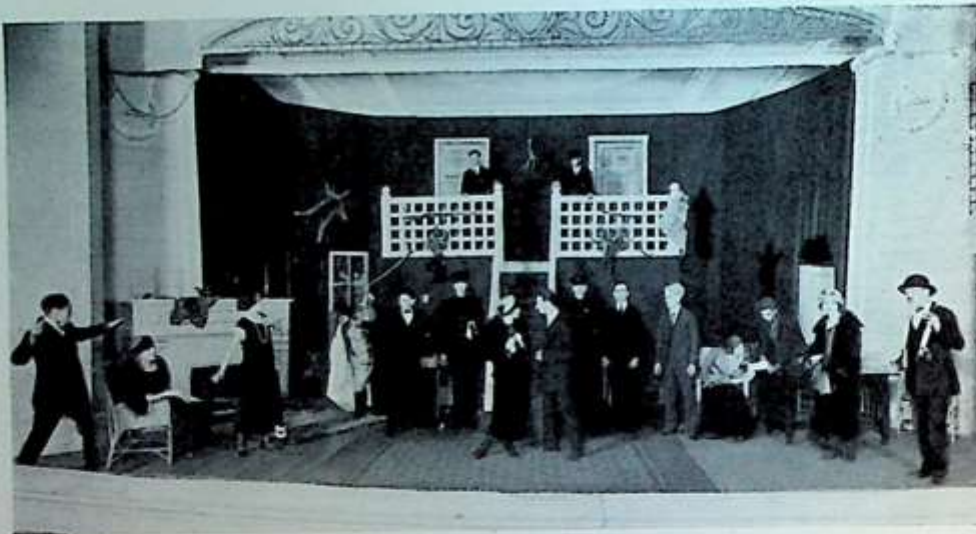

The attitude, stage poise and general atmosphere of the players were polished. Harold Setliffe, as William Magee, the novelist, held control of all the unnatural situations. His mastery of a long part was the subject of favorable comment. Mildred Edie as Mary Norton, newspaper reporter, performed with naturalness and ease. Her calm decisiveness was quite a contrast to her temperamental chaperone, played by Esther Marshall. Myra Thornhill was played by Hazel Kearns just as they do it in the "movies." She took her role so well that the audience really saw the blackmailer and not Hazel herself.

Among the eccentric characters that are difficult for high school people to play, Elijah and Mrs. Quimby, caretakers of Baldpate, were well played by Duncan Stewart and Margaret Miller. Thomas McGlynn also creditably played a difficult role, that of Peters, the Hermit.

In seven weeks the play was worked out to such a fine point by Miss Hobbs, that several times there were nine people, on and off stage, working simultaneously to produce effects. Mr. Pinkney, Mr. Ellis and Mr. Hifner were among those who worked faithfully at their duties to help make the play a success.

Thirty-two hundred people saw the "Seven Keys to Baldpate" during the two performances. Four hundred eighty dollars were cleared.

Frances Osborne made a poster on the bulletin board which attracted much attention. It pictured the seven heads of the persons who carried the seven keys.

The Boys' High School Club

Purpose: To promote clean speech, clean sports, and clean habits.

Adviser: Mr. Cohlmeier.

The Boys' Junior High School Club is a new organization. The idea of a club to promote clean speech, clean sports, and clean habits was originated by Faris Davis and was sponsored by Mr. Cohlmeier. It met with great success, a large percentage of the boys being members.

The officers are as follows: President, Faris Davis; Vice-President, Ted Dickhout; Secretary-Treasurer, Lynn Reeder.

November 9, 1923, the club had a banquet at the Oakley Methodist Episcopal Church. In December, instead of having another banquet, the boys adopted several families for Christmas.

The members of the club have derived a great deal of benefit from the meetings. The officers have succeeded in arousing the enthusiasm of the boys and in getting them to take a more active part in all school enterprises. With the progress that the club has made this year it has a promising future before it.

The Girl Reserves

In the fall of 1922 all the girls of the Junior High were invited to become charter members of a new organization to be called the Girl Reserves, an auxiliary of the Y. W. C. A. About fifty members responded and the club which was formed adopted the slogan, "To face life squarely". There are now fifty-five regular members on the roll.

The officers of the club are as follows: President, Zella Stanley; Vice-President, Olive Peeke; Secretary, Dorothy Smith; Treasurer, Margaret Johnstone.

The faculty advisers are Miss Dobyns, Miss Abbott, Miss Malter, Miss Wilson, Miss McClure and Miss Hoar.

The object of the club is to look for the highest and best at all times and to give the best possible service. As an incentive for every girl to serve well, honors are given for achievements along the line of health, knowledge, service, and school spirit. By attempting to live up to the best that is in her, every member tries to make herself worthy to bear the name of a Girl Reserve.

Camp Fire Girls

Purpose: To find beauty and romance in every-day life.

Northeast Junior groups: Kiyugan and Ne-Kiyugan.

The above groups of Camp Fire Girls were organized in January with Mrs. Lott and Miss Martha Abbott as guardians, assisted by Miss Esta Malter and Miss Nelle Ambrose.

The following girls took their first rank, that of Wood-gatherers, in the shortest possible time: Doris Janes, Mildred Crofut, Ruth Shotliff, Charline Holloway, Rhoda Shotliff, Emma Hahn, Ruth McKinnery, Dorothy Edlund. Miss Esta Malter, assistant guardian, also received this rank.

The following girls had already attained the rank of Wood-gatherer: Jeannette Wilkins, Edith Farnum, Gertrude Fraser, Pearl Proctor, Kathryn Hilburn.

Two of the girls, Christine Hubbard and Mae Lott, have attained the second rank, that of Fire-maker. When they are old enough to become guardians, they hope to attain the rank of Torch-bearer.

Camp Fire Honors may be earned in the following crafts: Home, health, citizenship, business, nature, camp, and hand-craft.

The Northeast Junior groups took part in their first Grand Council Fire, which occurred at Convention Hall on March 29, during the National Camp Fire Convention.

Iris Troop-Girl Scouts

In the fall of 1923 a few Girl Scouts felt strongly the need of a troop home in Northeast Junior High. As a result, they affected an organization called the Iris Troop, with Miss Mary Baxter as captain, and Miss Helen Wamsley as lieutenant. The three patrols, the Doves, the Owls and the Mules, became so popular that before the holidays all the places were filled, and so many girls wanted to be scouts that the American Goldfinch Troop was organized. This troop is captained by Miss Eva Van Natta with Miss Ethel Mealey as lieutenant. The patrols, the Pine, the Redwood, and the Oak, now have their full quota of girls.

The scout year has been crowded with interesting events. The girls gave a Christmas tree entertainment, with stockings and presents, for the children of the Harry M. Evans Home. February 14 was a memorable day, when the Scouts gave a valentine party for the Girl Reserves and Camp Fire Girls. The Iris Troop had a swimming party in December and the American Goldfinch Troop invited their mothers to see them in action at their April 4 meeting. The two troops demonstrated the pitching of a tent, and the construction of a tepee and a lean-to at the Kansas City Girl Scout Rally, held on the Concourse, May 17. The regular scout work has been carried on with much pleasure and profit.

On the whole the year has been very successful and has shown that scouting has come to stay and to grow in Northeast Junior.

The Student Council

A school has need of promoters. The larger the school, the greater the need. The Junior High, with an enrollment of thirteen hundred, has met this need, in part, by the Student Council. This body is composed of one or two representatives from each room, elected by the students in first hour classes.

The Council has met every two weeks with Mrs. Lockwood as adviser. Important information has been passed on to first hour classes by these student representatives. The Student Council has promoted school enterprises and has helped to establish and maintain high standards of conduct and scholarship. Furthermore, the members have given one assembly program of quotations, and one of debate.

Officers of the Student Council: President, Minnie L. Ridgell; Vice-President, Frederick Barbee; Secretary, Dorothy Mabie; Standing Committee, Hubert McClain, Henry Johnson, Emily Treadway, and Amy Woodruff.

Other members: John Cowan, Pearl Borders, Louise Cooper, Helen Highley, Edna Leonard, Mary Irene Madden, Eugene Conte, Richard Watts, Aleen Jarman, Judson Hadley, Clementine Glowczewsky, Grace Philpot, Evelyn Peringer, Lucile Jacobs, Harry Cohen, Lewis Belcher, George Bolles, Fern Alsip, Coral Cleaves, LeRoy Schreiber, Florence Thiel, Jack Newsom, Dorothy Teller, Alice Blain, Frances Kreek, Beatrice Falls, Edwin Frazee, William Eisberg, William Floyd Gibson, Lorna Beyers, Kathryn Jury, Leonard Clements, Margaret Lynd, Ruth Edwards, William Chrisman, Lawrence Arcuri, Alexander Muzzy, Mary Louise Williams, John Wherry, Hearle Montgomery, Jeanette Boline.

The Fine Arts Club

The purpose of the Fine Arts Club is to promote interest and co-operation among the four arts departments of the school: Music, Physical Training, Drawing and Expression. Much of the success of the club has been due to the energy and enthusiasm of the President, Minnie Louise Ridgell, with the help of the other officers: Dorothy Smith, Vice-President; Louise Hyder, Secretary; Gertrude Rapaport, Treasurer; Margaret Johnston, Reporter; and Mildred Martin, Sergeant-at-Arms. The other members of the club are as follows:

The Jubilee Cast

THE SECOND ANNUAL JUBILEE.

The calendar showed March 14 as the Jubilee date. Northeast Kansas City heard about it, and exactly thirty-seven hundred sixty-four people bought tickets to attend. They came in squads, platoons, and companies. They filled the auditorium, ten side-shows, and the corridors. The beautiful, big Northeast school house was too small for the crowd.

The program was given twice in order to accommodate the visitors. The young entertainers did their best; in fact, they did even better than their supposed best. Their eight numbers, all bright, clean, wholesome, and in harmony with the Jubilee spirit, were generously applauded.

The side-shows: All of them were filled to capacity. More than ten thousand tickets at "six for a quarter" were sold. The guests were eager to see the Fortune Tellers, the Colored Infants, the Actual Mermaids, the Black-face Minstrels, the Mah-Jongg Players, the Burma Belle, the O'Blarney's, the Tea Pot Domers, and the Four Horsemen of the Eucalyptus.

Noise a plenty, a riot of color, the contagion of joyous enthusiasm, and the spirit of neighborliness, characterized the Jubilee. Every teacher and every pupil boosted, and nearly every parent and friend gave splendid support. The receipts, $1,523, will be used for the best interests of the boys and girls. This money is an asset, but the supreme asset is the spirit of loyalty, cooperation, and good will developed in the school and community.

JUNIOR HIGH WINS CHAMPIONSHIP IN BASKET BALL.

The season of 1923-24 was a decided success, judged not only from the standpoint of games won and lost, but also from the standpoint of the benefits the school and the players derived from the season. In our second year of competition we were successful in bringing the Junior High School championship to Northeast. Of this achievement we are proud. Like the first thousand dollars saved, it was hard, but we hope the winning habit has been established.

The team developed with no outstanding star whose absence, or presence, would have wrecked or impeded the smoothness of play. True, Captain Dickhout was a very important member of the organization, and his loss would have been felt; yet when Teddy was not "hot" the other boys possessed the ability to go out and get the points necessary for a victory. Teddy made an ideal captain, head up and fighting all the time, with never a thought of attempting to play the stellar role.

If there is any feature of the team's play worthy of special mention, it was in the ability they developed to work the ball under the opponent's goal, where shots attempted have a decidedly greater chance of success. The writer cannot recall a single game of the season where long shots were made, or attempted. Ninety per cent of all field goals were made directly beneath the basket. Offensively, the team was good; defensively, it was better. A glance at the comparative scores will confirm this. It is worthy of note that no games were lost to Junior High School organizations; the only games on the wrong side of the ledger were dropped to the Rosedale High School first team, and the De LaSalle Academy first team.

Indoor Track Team

If the indoor season of last year can be used as a criterion, the season of 1924 is destined to be a huge success. The 1923 indoor team was a consistent fourth-placer in all meets, but came to life when the outdoor season opened and gave a very creditable performance in all meets. Outdoor dual meets were won by lop-sided scores from Westport, Kansas City, Kansas, and the Independence, Missouri, freshmen. A dual meet was dropped to Central by a narrow margin. Then came the quad, and the boys showed that previous successes were not flukes by placing a close second to Central which took the meet.

In addition to their success as point winners, the track team established three new records for the Quad. Walker Stephens set a new High Jump record for the unlimited class of five feet and one-half inch. Sidney Leritz established a one hundred ten-pound class record of five feet and a half inch in the same event. The unlimited eight hundred eighty-yard relay team, composed of Harris, Dickhout, McDaniel and Mays, set a new record of one minute, forty-eight and two-tenth seconds for this event.

This year's indoor relay team, composed of Gore, Morris, Wynn and Farlow, started the season by taking second to Central in the K. C. A. C. relays. The same team, with Dickhout running in Morris's place, pushed Central a little closer in the Missouri-Kansas meet, but still had to be satisfied with second. Then came the Missouri Valley meet and the boys came into their own, the same group making Central do the chasing from the first man to the last, and Central never caught up.

Lynn Reeder is the captain of this year's team, and with Forlow, Perrigo, Dickhout, Davis, Pensinger and Brewer of last year's team as a nucleus, together with the many promising boys who entered school this year, his prospects of leading a winning team are bright.

Following are some of the men who are showing up well in practice: Sprinters—Wynn, Farlow, Richardson, Dickhout, Leach, Dorsett, Bevins and McKinney. Hurdlers—Captain Reeder, Perrigo, Davis and Barnes. Weight Men—Pensinger, Brewer, Mabry, Wheeler. High Jumpers—Brewer, Gore, Allen, Davis and Isom. Broad Jumpers—Naylor, Newell, and Gore. Pole Vaulters—Elgin, Brewer, Moore and Daniels.

On April 18, Coach Warren took a squad to Lawrence, Kansas, for the open Junior High School meet at K. U., and, in a field of sixteen schools, Northeast finished second. Central High of Kansas City won the meet. John Pensinger easily won the shot put, heaving the shot 43-9. Manning Elgin tied for first in the pole vault at 10-1, a new Northeast record. Joe Brewer tied for second place in the high jump. Lynn Reeder won third place in the hurdle. The relay team won second place.

Following this event at Lawrence, came the dual meets with Westport and Kansas City, Kansas, and lastly the Quad with the Kansas City Junior High on May 17.

Girls' Basket Ball Team

The girls' Physical Education department, under the direction of Miss Ethel Mealey, assisted by Miss Fabrice Hoar, did very excellent work during the past year. A diversified program was offered. Two days a week were devoted to Hygiene, one day to swimming, one to sports, and one to folk dancing.

The work was on the point system. Every girl who earned 400 points was awarded a Junior High "N." Points were given for meeting requirements in dancing, swimming, hygiene, gymnastics, hiking, games, and sports, and for making the all-school teams in swimming, basket ball, baseball, volley ball, and for coming up to or passing the standard for various track events.

In addition to covering the required outline in personal and civic hygiene, the girls worked for health badges and honors given by the Girl Scout and Camp Fire Girls' organizations.

The method of selecting girls for the various school teams was democratic. During the season for each sport, each girl participated and a record was kept of her work. At the close of the season her record was posted and the girls voted on the members for the all-school honorary team. The following girls made the basket ball team: Forwards, Mildred Gerber, Anna Laurenzanna; guards, Cecilia Madding, Anita Parr; jumping center, Olive Peeké; side center, Ethelyn Thurmond.

Junior Life Savers

The swimming classes were divided into three teams, according to previous accomplishment. Each team had a definite outline of work to do during the year in order to get a passing grade, or to get the highest grade. The best swimmers were organized into a Life Savers' class. Thirty-eight girls started out in this class, and only nine fell by the wayside. In order to earn a badge, each had to execute the following perfectly: Carry a person of own weight ten yards by head carry, cross-chest carry, two-point carry, and tired-swimmer's carry. She must be able to release herself from a person in peril of drowning who has taken a wrist-hold, a front strangle, or a back strangle hold. She must be able to porpoise and to pick an object up from the bottom of the deep end of a pool; to resuscitate by the Schaeffer method; to undress in deep water; to tread for one minute, and to float for one-half minute. The girls in this group did splendid work in the swimming exhibition given for the National Council Fire of Camp Fire Girls, and before the National Physical Education Association. These girls are members of the group: Gertrude Rapaport, Lorene Cooper, Ethel Dawe, Clytie Eaton, Mildred Gerber, Kathryn Kirk, Ruby Kerst, Mary Jennett, Doris McMinn, Maxine Trenton, Olive Peeke, Lucille Turner, Mary Alice Spelman, Florence Theil, Emily Treadway, Ethelyn Thurmond, Dorothy Thompson, Helen Walker, Marguerite O'Mara, Mary Elizabeth Riepma, Naomi Bugbee, Pauline Geis, Evelyn De Late, Katherine Jury, Dorothy Teller, Dorothy Edlund, Dorothy Smith, Josephine Smith.

Organized Classes

The Junior High School has no exclusive literary societies, the members of which are elected by ballot. When the school was organized in 1923 the faculty adopted a democratic plan of organization for the various clubs of the school, so that each pupil could belong to at least one society. Each first-hour class is organized as a society with officers and committees to direct the various enterprises of the club. The aims and purposes of these organized classes vary somewhat, but in all of them the pupils receive valuable training in parliamentary law and have a chance to gratify their need for social relaxation. Thus the members of the first-hour classes become well acquainted with each other through the medium of club meetings, programs, after-school hikes, parties, trips to points of interest about the city, and other worth-while enterprises.

A few of the first-hour clubs are the following:

The Praesidia Corporis Club

The Praesidia Corporis Club is composed of thirty-seven girls of the first-hour physiology class. A club meeting was held every Friday, the programs consisting of talks on health, first aid, "safety first," and manners. A play, "The Trial of Fire," was presented in Assembly March 4.

The club made a very good showing throughout the year in all the activities of the school. The girls took second prize in the Junior Jubilee ticket-selling contest, having sold two hundred seventy tickets. They also sold large numbers of basket ball tickets, took an active part in the Junior Red Cross drive, brought many cans of milk for Near East Relief and boosted every other worth-while enterprise of the school year.

Much of the success of this, a representative Junior High School Club, is due to the teacher, Miss Hester Towles.
